Our mission is to restore the Hawai'i Kai wetland and malama the nesting grounds for the critically endangered endemic 'Alae 'ula.

According to the 2005 Fish and Wildlife report, there are fewer than three hundred 'Alae 'ula in the world, inhabiting only O'ahu and Kauai. Because of this, the restoration and maintenance of this little wetland would greatly benefit this species.

Each little wetland pocket helps to maintain the wellbeing and genetic diversity of wetland species in Hawaii.
